Fighting rages

British forces land on S.Georgia Island landed Sunday on the Argeotine-occupied island of South Georgia, the British Defense Ministry announced.

A ministry statement said the military operation began "at first light" near the harbor at Grytviken, on the island's northeast

"A British task group engaged in opera-tions off South Georgia was detected by an Argentine submarine close off the coast near the harbor at Grytviken," the statement said. The submarine, which has been damaged, is believed to be the Santa Fe.

Defense Ministry spokesmen were not immediately available to elaborate the report. However, the British domestic news agency Press Association, quoting government sources, said Sunday's assault was preceded by the landing last Thursday of a small group of marine commandos.

The agency said the landing party had been put ashore from a British submarine off the island 800 miles (1,280 km) east of the main Falkland Islands. The Falklands were seized by Argentina April 2 and South Georgia, a glaciet-covered outcrop north of the Antarctic Circle, was taken a day later.

Independent Radio News, quoting Defense Ministry officials, said the fighting was continuing, hut word was expected "at any moment" that the island had been secured. Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. who met with her top cahinet aides at her country residence, Chequers, was reported on ber way to Windsor Castle to hrief Queen Elizabeth II.

in Sunday's fighting. Press Association reported that the first landing was carried out hy about a dozen members of the Royal Marines' crack special boat service, who went ashore Thursday to

The advance party radioed back that the Argentine defenders numbered 44 men, plus a mortar team, the agency said, quoting Defense Ministry officials.

No sbots were fired until Sunday, when the British operation was detected by the Argeotine sub and British helicopters were sent in to attack it. PA reported that the submarine, one of two World War II vintage Guppy-class suhmarine bought from the United States, was on the surface when it was fired on and could have launched a torpedo at a British vessel. Shortly after the belicopters were sent in, the main British invasion force stormed ashore, Press Association said.

In Buenos Aires, officials sources said that Argentine troops are resisting the British attack on the island of South Georgia. The military junta said in a communique that the British attack involved "intense artillery fire and air strafing".

Reacting to the reported British attack on an Argentine submarine, the U.S. State Department said Sunday in Washington it "demonstrates the gravity of the situation and the urgency of a diplomatic solution" to

Oil problem almost ends, Yamani says

RIYADH, April 25 (SPA) - Satisfaction with present conditions in the world oil market was voiced here by Sheikh Ahmad Zaki Yamani late Saturday when he indicated that 'the problem has almost ended." He reaffirmed that members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) were adhering to the current price of $34 per Sheikh Yamani addressed newsmen here after a meeting of petroleum ministers of the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) states. He said that prices of local oil products in the GCC countries were discussed along with measures that will bave to be taken and the necessary coordination for the future. Petrochemical plans were also discussed.

Sheikh Yamani said that a number of resolutions were adopted, including one requesting additional studies on oil products of the GCC countries. The conference recommended to for GCC governments to take specific measures.

RAFAH, Sinai, April 25 (Agencies) — Israel Sunday completed its withdrawal from the Sinai peninsula and the Egyptian flag was raised there. Fifteen years of Israeli occupation ended with little fanfare, the last soldiers crossing the horder in a disorganized convoy half-concealed by a sand storm.

The mood in Israel was somber, with government ministers declaring it was the last time the Zionist state would give territory hack to the Arabs, The handover, the key Israeli concession in the 1979 Camp David Peace treaty, was not marked by any joint ceremonies and even beyond the deadline Egypt and Israel were in dispute over the precise demarcation lines.

"As long as an inch of our territory is in the hands of Iraq, and the Iraqi regime refuses to accept our conditions, there shall be current problem with Israel and our relations were going to continue as planned" Mubarak added that the United States was pursuing its role as a "full partner" in the peace process.

Mubarak laid a wreath at the war memorial in Martyrs Square, starting a day of low key celebrations. Mubarak also visited the 10mb nearby of assassinated President Anwar Sadat who initiated peace with Israel about five years ago. The 10-minute ceremony was attended by armed forces representatives and senior officials.

The official Middle East News Agency reported from Sharm El-Sheikh that the last Israeli soldier left the city at 6.30 a.m. (0430 GMT) after lowering the Israeli flag. It said the Israeli army unit left for Eilat.

"Mabrouk, mabrouk (congratulations)," said Mubarak as he entered his beavilyguarded car on his way back to the presidency for a normal working day. It was also another working day for Egyptians with oo signs of visible celebrations. Foreign ministry sources said the minimum celebrations were in response to an Israeli government request. Mubarak made a surprise telephone call to Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin Sunday morning as Begin was conducting a routine weekly cabinet meeting, the Israeli army radio reported. During their conversation, the Egyptian leader repeated earlier assurances given by himself and his ministers of Cairo's peaceful intentions toward Israel.

Begin and Mrs. Begin sent a telegram to Sadat's widow, Mrs. Jihan Sadat. "Our hearts are with you, your children and your grandchildren on this day when Anwar Sadat should have been with us," the telegram said. We must dedicate our efforts to show his death was not in vain." Sadat in 1978 signed the Camp David accords with Begin and former U.S. President Jimmy Carter. In Rafah, northern Sinai, violence erupted

Sunday morning around a gate to divide the town between Egypt and Israel, as Israeli troops fired into the air to disperse rockthrowing Palestinians. There were no reports of injuries. A number of Palestinians tried to cross in either direction, or hung onto the new fence dividing the town between Rafah-Palestine (occupied by Israel) and Rafah-Sinai ruled by Egypt). Some tried to hlock troops installing rolls of barbed wire fence. Meanwhile, the troops had to open the barbed-wire barriers several times to allow Palestinians to cross, A sobbing Palestinian child was lifted above rolls of barbed-wire fencing to the Rafah-Palestine section of the city, which is occupied by Israel, just as the gates were closed at noon (1000 GMT). Minutes later, the main commercial street in Rafah-Palestine was empty, with sbops closed for several hundred meters (yards). "From now on, we are like East and West

PLO to open office in Cairo

AMMAN. April 25 (AFP) - The Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) has decided to open an office in Cairo to handle issues relating to occupied Arah territories, an Arab diplomatic source in Jordan said Sunday.

The source said Yunes Katari, former director of PLO bureau in Amman will head the new Cairo office. It will deal primarily with affairs concerning the Gaza Sirip, the source said. Neither confirmation nor denial of this report could be obtained from Palestinian sources in Beirut.

The PLO along with Arah countries decided, at a Baghdad summit in 1978, to close associations there in reaction to the late President Anwar Sadat's visit in occupied Jerusalem in November, 1977

stronger than ever, Aba Al-Khail says

RIYADH, April 25 (SPA) — The Saudi Arahian economy has reached a noticeably advanced stage after all prerequisites have almost been ensured, Finance and National Economy minister Sheikh Muhammad Aba Al-Khail has said.

The minister, who was speaking in a television interview Saturday night said the couatry's economy is now in a stronger position than ever. The rate of growth achieved last year exceeded 10 percent. This is a very good percentage compared with other developing states where the rate stood at around five percent, he added.

Aba Al-Khail said that the cost of living in Saudi Arabia last year fell to less than two percent at a time when costs of living are increasing all over the world. He noted that the drop came as a result of the effort increase development and from the availability of foodstuffs.

Referring to a statement released earlier hy the Ministry of Finance and National

Compensations

RIYADH, April 25 (SPA) - King Khaled has given directives that allocations for expropriations in all parts of Saudi Arabia top all other priorities in the new state hudget, Crown Prince Fahd said Friday evening. The prince said that the compensations will be paid to the citizens very soon on a special priority basis.

Economy concerning the new state budget, the minister said that last year's expenditure amounted to SR288 billion. Out of this, SR172 hillion was spent on projects; SR115 billion on operational costs and administrative expenses

Monetary liquidity last year reached 22 percent compared to 20.4 percent in the preceding year. Such a great increase in cash flow reflects the absorption capacity of the Saudi Arabian national economy, he said. "Had the expenses been greater, we would have witnessed a rise in the cost of living," he pointed

The minister said that the private sector has been particularly active in the past five years as its share rose anywhere between 30 and 37 percent marking a turning point in the country's economy and its absorption capacity. He added that private and public sectors are two sides of the same coin.

Aba Al-Khail said that the Kingdom's exports last year stood at SR372 billion of which oil represented 99.3 percent, Oil exports were shipped to more than 88 countries. The six major industrial states, namely the United States, Japan, West Germany, Italy, England France, imported 56 percent of the Kingdom's oil exports, the minister

Meanwhile, Saudi Arabia imported consumer and capital goods last year at a total of SR 122 billion from 143 countries. And again. 68 percent of such items were imported from the six industrial states.

At the same time more than SR20 billion has been earmarked this year for credit funds, because the Agricultural Bank will be further expanded while the Real Estate Fund and the Industrial Fund will maintain the same standard.

Dr. Umair also said that SR5.3 billion was allocated in the new budget for small municipalities for local services, such as asphalting, lighting and drainage. The regional capitals like Tahuk, Hail, Najran, Jouf and Arar were particularly taken care of.

GCC to discuss food needs

RIYADH, April 25 (SPA) - Bahraini Minister of Commerce and Agriculture Habib Ahmad Qasem has said that agriculture ministers of the states of the region agreed to hold a meeting soon to study the region's needs for food and the possibility of supplying it from their own sources.

In a statement published in Al-Riyadh newspaper Sunday. Qasent said during this recent visit to the Kingdom he acquainted himself with the agricultural advancement in Saudi Arubia and also with the colossal

He said that Saudi Arabia has taken the lead in the supply of food materials and the giant projects he saw in the Kingdom give strength to the idea of a common Gulf market. During his visit, he said, he discussed various aspects of agricultural and commercial cooperation and the possibility of setting up joint ventures in the sphere of agriculture. The Buhraini minister added that officials in the two countries and also other GCC member states welcome this cooperation and strive to develop it further.

NEW DELHI, April 25 (Agencies) — India and Algeria Sunday publicly announced their joint support for Baghdad as the venue for the seventh nonaligned summit meeting scheduled for September.

The backing for Baghdad came in the joint communique released here at the conclusion of Algerian President Chadli Benjedid's visit. He later arrived in Peking. The communique ended speculation that President Chadli would support Iran, with which Algeria has close relations. Tehran totally rejects the idea of Iraq - with whom it has been at war since September 1980 - hosting the summit, and Iraqi President Saddam Hussein being leader of the movement for the next three years.

Algeria wields considerable influence in the 93-nation movement, and President Chadli came to New Dethi from Yugoslavia among reports of hesitation in Belgrade over endorsing the Iraqi capital. Speculation was triggered by the absence of any reference to Baghdad in the joint Algerian-Yugoslav communique issued at the end of President Chadi's visit to Belgrade. But the New Delhi joint communique not only supported Baghdad as the venue, but emphasized the importance of making the forthcoming conference India, in spite of its growing economic relations with Iran, has always favored Baghdad as the venue. Cuba, which holds the presidency now, Egypt and Yugoslavia shared this point of view.

Observers said, however, that the issue was not going to end there. It was likely to be brought up again when Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayari arrives for talks with Indian leaders next week.

Informed sources said Iran had a number of options for exerting pressure, such as the possibility of a contract for buying $90 million worth of Indian locomotives. Velayati is expected to give the Indian leaders an ultimatum to withdraw their support for the Baghdad summit, but observers doubt if he will succeed in making New Delhi alter its stand.

India and Algeria also accused Israel and white minority-ruled South Africa of engaging in "unprovoked armed aggression" and thereby endangering world peace. Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and Benjedid reaffirmed their full support and solidarity with the Palestinian people who are fighting under the leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization — the sole and legitimate

Bangladesh to set up press panel

DACCA, April 25 (AFP) - The Bangladesh military government Saturday decided to set up a press commission to "examine the present state of the press in the country," in response to a longstanding demand by professional journalists.

The decision was taken at a meeting of the civil-military advisory council beaded by the army strongman, Lt.-Gen. H.M. Ersbad. The commission will consult people in journalism and make recommendations for improving professional standards.

Dacca journalists had put forward a number of proposals when Gen. Ershad visited the National Press Club last Wednesday. The 15-member press commission, headed by a high court or supreme court judge or an eminent personality. will sit for six months beginning May 1, an official announcement

SINAI WITHDRAWAL

Israel has completed its withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula that it had been occupying and exploiting since 1967.

Amid Egyptian jubilation over the withdrawal it should be remembered that Egypt does not exercise full sovereignty in the area as it does in Cairo, Luxor or Alexandria. It has no right to increase the size of the specific force that it has agreed to station there under the Camp David accords. A multinational force will monitor the area for violations while at the same time Israel will remain free to do what it likes on its own side of the border.

The accords were ostensibly aimed at bringing about a peaceful solution of the Palestinian problem through a first stage, the so-called internal autonomy program. But as it turned out, the autonomy clause was a coverup for the withdrawal from Sinai. The proof lies in the fact that the Palestinians have been denied the right of self-determination and the limited autonomy talks have floundered ever since the accords were signed.

Egypt, first under Sadat and then under Mubarak had to swallow its pride and refrain from demanding too strongly that the talks be reactivated, for fear of triggering Israeli indignation and refusal to withdraw from Sinai. This may have been a plausible, if immoral, excuse.

But now that the Israelis have gone and Mubarak is in power it remains to be seen what developments will occur. Certainly Egypt will seek to improve its relations with at least some Arab states which may not find it so difficult to reciprocate the sentiments.

Even the Palestine Liberation Organization might find it expedient to mend its fences with Egypt, still the major Arab power and center of influence of the Arab world. Egypt,too, will need Arab friendship, support and aid although it will not necessarily sever relations with Israel and risk the re-invasion of the Sinai, which Israel has threatened to do in case of violation of the accords. Never mind that it bas already violated the accords by shunning the autonomy part of them and intensifying its repression in the occupied lands.

Mubarak is in a better position to repair Egypt's bridges with the Arab states than Sadat would have been altbough it was Sadat who negotiated the withdrawal agreement. Mubarak is untarnished since he did not sign the accords although he was a full partner with Sadat and his heir but such are the circumstances that he will not be judged guilty of Sadat's mistakes.

BEIRUT -

One evening at dinner in the home of Khalil Ibrahim Wazir, (also known as Abu Jihad, deputy commander of the Forces of the Palestinian Revolution), the host informed his guests that PLO intelligence reports indicated that the Israelis would bomb Beirut at 6 a.m. the following day.

At dawn this reporter awoke in a hotel near the Mediterranean, listening for the attack, wondering American-made bombs would fall fmm American-made warplanes, so indiscriminately given to Zionists. At 6 a.m.; a plane, sounded in the distance - an Airbus 300, lowering for a landing at nearby Beirut airport.

Despite the reports, Abu Jihad appeared relaxed, even as his intelligence network indicated the Israelis were preparing to hit so hard they would eliminate all Palestinians, in order then to say to the world: There is no Palestinian problem, there are

Arafat, asked how he felt about the pressures applied on him from the right and left, from those who want him to break the ceasefire and from those who do not want him to break the ceasefire, replied in an Arabie verse, which he then translated into English. "I will be parient, until my patient is fed up with patience."

He explained that the verse uses the word patience seven times, and that in Arabie the word patience also means a cactus, and that its thoms can cut and "Its tasse can be bitter."

Arafat lives a crisis day by day, and somehow manages to keep smiling and keep optimistic, despite the 'bitter" taste of restraint. Only the day before, a 37-year-old man from Baltimore, Maryland — a man who bolds both Israeli and American passports, this being allowed because of America's special relationship with Zionism - had stormed into the sacred Al Agsa Mosque in Jerusalem, killing and wounding Arabs. Arafat was on a telephone to leaders of the Arab world, arranging that they call a day of protest for the desecration of the mosque. Despite his having to be on the alert for an attack, which he feels can come at any moment, he took time to talk of his hopes that the American people, if they learn the facts of Zionism will cease sending blank checks for Israeli aggression. Arafat, dressed in khaki trousers, shirt and jacket, and wearing the traditional kaffiyeh, was seated behind a desk. Chairs forming a semicircle in front were occupied by a half-dozen military advisers and other aides. In the current difficult time, would be instil hope and courage in his people? "No, "he answered ." I will give you a very important slogan. In our area there are many important leaders among their people and the leaders are more important than their people, but among the Palestinian people, the people are more important than their leaders." He paused and reiterated, "The Palestinian people are greater, more important than their leaders. The Palestinian people in their totality have been greater in their sacrifices and their humanism, more than those who came and claimed to be the leaders of these people. It is the people, not the leaders, who show optimism, determination, consciousness of victory. If the Palestinian people are greater than their leaders, how did they acquire such determination, such optimism for the future?

"Survival," Mahmoud Labadi, the PLO informaflon spok season, in the circle of monorband Acafat. interposed, before Arafat could answer. "They don't have any other way. They want to survive. If they do not resist they will die. They have to be determined. It is the daily challenge they are fac-

Labadi had in effect answered for the chairman but Arafat did not consider it his answer.

"You know why?" Arafat asked, his eyes now sharply focused on the questioner. "It is the holy land. It is the terra sancta. It is not by chance that it is the land for the Muslims, the Christians, the Jews. You will not find one prophet of this area but who passed through or was born in Palestine. This is our heritage, this is our tradition. It is not by chance that the people have this spirit — their character, their strength are based on faith and we have this

"If you want to discuss the revolution against

Zionism by reason and what is going on now, you cannot understand it. We do not recognize any defeatism because our people have this prophecy in their minds and souls. And there was no civilization, all over the world, that did not pass through Palestine. It was the center.

Yasser Arafat tells Arab News:

"Maybe the red Indian civilization was not here," Arafat coatinued, "But according to some records, they had gone to the new world from here. You have the example of the pyramids in Mexico. They are similar to those pyramids in Egypt. That was not by chance. There was the Mayor civilization. All these civilizations from all through history had derived or arrived in this area. They passed through, by one means or the other. They include the Romans, Greeks, Persians, Egyptians, Cannonites, Assyrians, Babylonians, Africans. So. you see our heritage is not by chance."

The men around him seem at ease with him. He apparently likes to joke with them, and he has a sharp sense of numor - watch perhaps serves as the one means of relieving the stress under which he constantly lives. He might smile and joke; still he had to be alert to a possible attack from the Israelis moving into the south, landing at Damour and or Tripoli, and bombing the building in which he sat talking — all of these were possibilities which he had constantly to keep in mind.

Are there any political figures or intellects on the scene today he admires?

"There are many," he responded. "Do not imagine that only one personality can fashion another" life or character. It is the entire stream of life or civilization that does it. Maybe one person can guide it. But he does not control it. For me, there have been many influential leaders, thinkers, personalities, who provided the balance to my life.

"I do not believe in the slogan or popular belief that this leader or this philosopher is the only one who is guiding my life. Because life is so complicated that it is not wisdom to believe or hold that one teacher will be enough for it." But most influenced him?

And does Aralat think the Israelis might annex the West Bank?

"In my opinion," he said. "there is not a difference between occupation and annexation. What is the difference? I am very pragmatic, I am dealing with realities and facts. Not with big slogans. The facts are that we are here and we are the main important figure in the Middle East equation. No peace, no security, no settlement by over-jumping the Palestinian rights.

U.S. stalls on arms deal with Somalia

NAIROBI, Kenya --In November 1977, President Muhammad Suid Barre of Somulia expelled thousands of Soviet advisers. He was hoping for a close military rela-tionship with the United States and had some reason to expect it. But today, relations are uncerin the final months of furmer U.S. President Jimmy Cartet's administration in 1980, the U.S. Defense Department signed a military agreement with Somalia. The U.S. was seeking military bases in the Gulf and Indian Ocean regions to deal more effectively with emergencies such as the hostage crisis in Iran.

Under the agreement, the U.S. Rapid Deploy-ment Force (RDF) would have access to Somali airfields and the strategic port of Berbera, commanding the southers entrance to the Red Sea. In. exchange, the U.S. said it would sell Somalia 12 air defense guns and three long-range air defense radar sets, along with spare parts for $45 million.

So far none of the equipment has arrived in the country on the Horn of Africa, despite repeated-Somali requests for delivery. Now. President Ronald Reagan's administration seems to be reconsidering the military arrangement with Somalia. U.S. diplomats in East Africa say the deal is on the shelf, perhaps indefinitely because of doubts about the stability of the Somali government and apprehension that he might use the arms to pursue territorial claims in the neighboring countries of Kenya and Ethiopia.

Siad Barre, a major general who seized power in a coup in October 1969, visited Washington, D.C., in March to press his case with President Reugan. Secretary of State Alexander Hung and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

"I don't think they gave him much encouragement," said one envoy who asked not to be named.
The Somalis argue that their 60,000-man army is up against a hostile, Soviet-backed neighbor — Ethiopia — which has an army of some 250,000 men, supported by about 15,000 Cuban military personnel and 3,000 Soviet and East German advisers.

South Yemen, another Soviet ally directly across the Gulf of Aden from Somalia's northern coast The signatories said the tripartite agreement wa aimed at countering what they called "U.S. expansionism" in the region.

Somalia was a victim of a superpower realigitment in the Horn of Africa when the Soviet Union shifted its backing to Ethiopia ia the prolonged war over the arid Ogaden Region claimed by both countries. An estimated $1 billion worth of Soviet weapons and the Cuban troops helped Ethiopia win the Ogaden war in 1978.

Some Somalis and diplomats believe the Americans are biding their time in Somalia, hoping that Ethiopia might break with the Soviet Union and restore the long-time friendship with the United States forged under the late Emperor Haile Selassic. These observers say the Americans would pre-fer Ethiopia, black Africa's second most populous. nation with over 30 million inhabitants, to Somalia. to an impoverished couldtry of some four million good

Is it better, politically, to be fighting inside rather than outside?

"It is a joint struggle. No one can separate us. It is. true that there is strong cooperation and coordina-tion between the Palestinians inside and outside our occupied territories. And as I have mentamed we have a great confidence in their wisdom. I will tell you a story. Some years ago, in 1967, when we declared we would continue our struggle, I went there, by myself, to the occupied territories. There was a big battle in Jenin. And the Israelis sent their forces, their army, to Jenia. French journalists asked Dayan about this big battle. What is going oa? He said, you are asking about must me? Thieves selling off Egyptian antiques

By Hamza Hendawi

MOUNT BENI HASSAN, Egypt, (R) -The solitary guard of three dozen ancient tombs scattered along the mountainside here is an example of the inadequate security which helps Egypt's antiques thieves to

When he became guard six years ago Ali Rashid was given a mud hu! on the mountainside for himself and his family and a gun. He was told to protect the 4,500-year-old sile. But it is almost impossible for one man to guard the isolated tombs stretching for some 900 meters (yards) and hewed for Beni Hassan's barren slopes overlooking the Nile in the upper Egyptiao region of Minya.

Apart from the Beni Hassan tombs which beloog to the 11th and 12th ancient Egyptian

Largest book weighs 2½ tons

(LONDON (LPS): Welghing in at more than two-and-a-half tons, the world's largest book, just published in Britain, is hardly bedtime reading material and at a cost of £16,352 a copy it will never be a bestseller.

This gigantic volume, or 754 volumes to be precise, is a major milestone in the history of the printed word, for it records practically every book to have been published in the world since printing began about five centuries ago, and as such is the most comprehensive reference work ever.

Called the National Union Catalog (NUC), it has been compiled from the vast catalogue of the Library of Congress in Washington, and printed and published in Britain by a company specially formed to undertake the task, The National Union

Calalog Prc-1956 Imprints Company.

It took 15 years to complete and involved the continuous use of an electronic camera designed to select and photograph only the essectial information on each catalogue card.

There are 150 hard pressed guards like Ali in the 160 km (100 mile) long province trying to protect the sites from notorious antiques thieves who for generations have made a living from plundering the tombs. These and other stolen antiques often find their way to high-paying private collectors in Europe or the United States. Minya's chief antiquities inspector Samir

Salib said that the wide geographical distribution of the historical sites in Minya is a major element in the high rate of thefts in the pro-

Two cameras were worn out in the process.

The cards, flown in bundles weekly from America to Britain, amounted to 11,340,000 entries filling 527,000 pages in the finished work. It does not include any books published during or after 1956.

The value of the NUC to scholars, authors and librarians is immense, enabling them to trace what books are available on any subject, the number, date and place of different editions, and where they may be found.

National libraries, universities and other similar bodies io 51 couotries around the world have already found the 41 meters of shelf space needed to house each set. Some countries, like Nigeria and the Soviet Union. have bought several. So far, more than 1350 copies have been sold worldwide, from India, China, the Middle East, Africa and Central America to Europe, North and South America, Australia, New Zealand and various African countries. There are only about dynasties, the province has numerous other historical sites which belong to other early periods. There is the city of Akhetaton built by the famous Egyptian King Akhnaton and the city of Antinopolis huilt by the Roman Emperor Hadrian during his visit to Egypt in 130 A.D. in memory of his friend Antinous who committed suicide by drowning himself in the

"During the mid-1970s the remote sites in Minya saw an intensification in the number of roberies which set alarm bells ringing in Cairo about the antiquities drain," Salib said.

Another official gave an example of the magnitude of the problem. He said that one day be by chance saw some 300 people digging on the hills of Beni Mazar, north of here, searching illegally for antiques.

"We chased them in a jeep but we only caught one who later said he was digging in Allah's lands," he said.

The antiquity director of the province Mahmoud Hamza said only small-scale action is being takeo to combat thievery. Around $16,000 have been allocated for iron gates for the province's numerous tombs and another $11,000 for the erection of guard

But in Cairo, the chairman of the Egyptian Antiquities Department Ahmed Kadri said the chief problem his office faced was people who dig unnoticed in areas believed to be potential sites for antiques.

"There is hardly anything that gets stolen from the museums or stores. The source of the antiques drain is the gangs making a living by selling what they find underground in areas free of any surveillance," Dr. Kadri

He said his department has embarked on a long-term plan to replace the century-old system of appointing members of influential families to look after antiquity sites.

"The antiquity police department was recently formed and we hope we will be able to get regular police in place of the old guards," he said.

The department is supplying the new force with radios, jeeps and guas.

Hamza said the names of the gang leaders are known hut no one has been able to catch them red-banded. Officials say the law is not much help.

One official recalled that when he took a man to a local police station for possession of antiques the man was freed following a rouline identity check.

An antiquity law passed in 1951 allows the possession of antiquities but imposes some restrictions on dealing in them.

Dr. Kadri believes the law is inadequate to prevent the draio of antiques to private collectors outside the country and has called for it 10 be tightened.

Egyptians who possess antiques were recently asked to register them with the antiquilies department following press reports about widespread smuggling, although officials declined to estimate the exact scale of the problem.

"Perhaps hundreds of people still possess large collections of antiques and they never bothered to register them - probably they are waiting for a chance to snuggle them out of the country," Dr. Kadri said.

The antiquities department is also working at improving the security of the Egyptian museum in Cairo, which has oo alarm system. The World Bank will grant five million dollars for the second phase of the museum's development plan which includes an electronic surveillance system.

Supreme Court holds answer to Hinckley's final appeals

WASHINGTON (LOS) Thirty miles outside Washington, D.C. in a military stockade, under a light that hurns perpetually and gazed on by closed circuit television cameras, John W. Hinckley Jr — the rich young drifter who bought two handguns in a Dallas pawnshop and last March tried to kill President Reagan — last month completed his first year in eustody at a cost to the American taxpayer of $600,000 in special protection expenses. The Hinckley delays have been brought about by a so far successful legal plea that an interview Hinckley gave the FBI shortly after his arrest and the contents of notes seized from his cell last summer are inadmissible evidence. A judge and an appeals court have accepted that in both cases Hinckley's rights were violated — in the first because oo lawyer was present, although Hinekley had requested one, and in the second hecause his privacy was invaded.

That Hinckley fired the shots is not at issue: but what will remain for a court to decide is his state of mind at the time. The defense will argue that he was insane.

Civilization's effects catastrophic to the world's undeveloped islands

MANILA, (Depthnews) — Dream of a tropical island: deserted beaches and coconut palms against a clear blue sky, a riot of colors in the coral reefs just offshore, exotic fruits for the picking. Above all, it is an isolated isle, untainted by the ravages of civilization.

Alas, Gaugin's paradise is only on canvas. Modern man and his pets have far-reaching, in some instances catastrophic, impact on island ecosystems. The very qualities which attract tourists to islands have also been marred hy development and modernization deemed necessary to accommodate tourism. Thus, 80 percent of the native land birds in Hawaii have become extinct, while 40 percent of all vertebrate extinctions in the world have occurred on the islands of the Carib-

Fiji, an archipelago of about 70 islands more than half of which are uninhabited, is not, much different. The islands once supported local production linked by trade carried in canoes. But colonial policies encouraged - sometimes compelled - the islanders into the dangerous situation of dependendce on a single cash crop — copra, or dried coconut meat. Today, underpopulated Fiji, which could easily support itself from local resources, has to import between 30 and 40 percent of its food. The eastern islands are, in fact, subject to trading economies heavily dependent on the outside world.

UNESCO's Man and the Biosphere Program is currently studying island ecosystems in 13 countries. In 1973, a team of scientists. studied the two larger islands of Fiji -Taveuni and Lakeba — which have the biggest urban populations, as well as a number of smaller islands, all rural in character. The study confirmed that the population has declined in recent years largely through emigration to the more developed parts of Fiji. The study said that not only could these eastern islands carry far larger populations, hut their natural resources are still underdeveloped - a strange combination in today's over-crowded and over-exploited

Fijians, for instance, have much to learn about land-use management, as well as the ways and means of expanding their fishing industry and of converting water in an area where drought is a common hazard. Hurricanes and exceptionally dangerous seasurges are also common, prompting scientists to strongly recommend that buman settlements and any tourist development be put beyond the sea's reach.

The study also cast a somewhat different light on accepted conceptions of island ecosystems. Says Dr. H.C. Brookfield of Melbourne University in Australia: "We have traced the external impact on one island, Lakeha, through the swamp-course back over 2,000 years. We found the ruination of this part took place 1,500 to 1,800 years ago. Since then there has been a certain amount of natural reforestation and it has recovered greatly.

In fact, the study found that local vegetation has a very considerable survival capacity, notwithstanding the destroution of many

Still, all things considered, many men will not leave it to nature to repair itself. After all, it takes thousands of years, and they don't have much time to wait. Be it in the Philippines' hundred islands or in the thousands which dot Indonesia, many peoples life-long quests has been to look for the perfect isle. Although many had some of their most remarkable discoveries in the islands of Asia, the quest is getting difficult over the years. And time is running out, before the tourists

Steincrohn

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: What's the latest in treating a heart attack? I've heard that there's a method of dissolving the clot in the coronary artery. Will you describe what happens? - Mr. A.

Dear Mr. A.: You're probably referring to a new procedure called "intracoronary thrombolysis." It is an emergency action. Its purpose is to reopen the obstructed coronary artery.

After the location of the thrombus (clot) is determined by angiography, a substance such as streptokinase is infused directly into the occluded coronary artery for 60 to 120 minutes. In successful cases this dissolves the clot and reopens the artery within 20 minutes. But the procedure isn't indicated in every heart

It must be performed as early as possible after the beginning of the attack — within 3 to 6 hours. This treatment often saves life by

Peking flays French aid to Viets

PEKING. April 25 (Agencies) — Communist China Sunday attacked France's aid to Victuam, saying the French government's syntpathy for the 'Third World did not justify helping a country militarily allied to the Soviet Union. The criticism appeared in a commentary by the official New China News Agency (NCNA) two weeks after France agreed to reschedule Vietnamese debts, unofficially estimated at $300 million. During talks in Paris with Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Cu Thach, the French government also agreed to send Hanoi 6,000 tons of wheat and ask its European allies to do the same

China, which strongly opposed Vietnam's 1979 military intervention against the Khmer Rouge in Kampuchea, has led an international campaign to force Hanoi to withdraw its troops. The NCNA commentary said that while a number of countries cut aid to Vietnam over the issue, "France, on the contrary, is itching for better relations with Hanoi."

The Chinese agency acknowledged that "the French Socialist Party government pays more attention than other Western countries to the appeals of Third World countries...This of course contains some positive elements."

U.S.general defendsVietnam action

NEWPORT NEWS. Virgmia, April 25 (AP) — Retired U.S. Army Gen. William C. Westmoreland said Saturday that American military efforts in Victnam "were not in vain."

Westmoreland, former commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, said there were "strategic political dividends wrought by our military effort" in Vietnam.

"We held the line for 10 years against

Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

That effort provided ... a shield against Communist expansion in the area," he said. West Moreland, 62, said the real payoff

West Moreland, 62, said the real payoff for Vietnam was seen in Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand. Indonesia and the Philippines. "It bought time for those immature countries to develop," he said. "The chaos and imhumanity displayed in Hanoi-controlled Indochina has shown the people of Southeast Asia the real face of communism."

German schoolgirl gets prize for peace ballad

HARROGATE, Northern England, April 25 (AFP) — A West German schoolgirl, Nicole Hohloch, 17, won the Eurovision Singing Contest here Saturday night with a simple hallad decicated to peace.

The folksong type music of her song "Ein Bisschen Jspden" (a little hit of peace) contrasted with the rhythmic music of other contestants. It was West Germany's first win in the 27-year-old annual event.

An estimated 300 million people watched the contest, shown in a joint telecast by the national networks of the Western European countries and Yugoslavia, Italy, France and Monaco stayed out of this year's contest.

After being named winner, Nicole repeated her song, but in English and French as well as German.

Nicole commented: "I can't believe it's happened. But it was a beautiful song. I had to take time off school to come here, and some of the teachers weren't very happy that I would be missing lessons." She said she now faced the dilemma of whether to keep studying to be a teacher or to go on with her singing career.

Germany's victory assures that the costly contest will be staged again next year. German TV officials said they will be host to next year's contest in Hamhurg or Munich despite the high organization cost.

But, it added, "Vietnam is not an ordinary Third World country. It militarily allied with the Soviet Union. It is committing flagrant aggression against Kampuchea and thereby arousing strong condemnation from Third World countries and the majority of other states."

Sunday's agency dispatch was the first time that the Chinese media have openly criticized France over its closer ties with its former colony. But earlier this month China cautioned unnamed countries against encouraging with aid what it called Vietnam's aggressive expansionism, and the official press has carried reports from the Khmer Rouge radio attacking France's rapprochement with Hanoi.

Meanwhile, the French armed forces chief of staff, Gen. Jeannou Lacaze, was welcomed to China with a toast to friendship Saturday night. The news agency said Chinese chief of staff Yang Dezhi gave a banquet for Lacaze and told the guests that friendly relations between Chinese and French peoples and armed forces have developed continuously in recent years.

Lacaze told the banquet friendly relations between the two armed forces are based on mutual respect and mutual understanding. He added, "The two countries do not necessarily take the same road in the political, social and military fields, but their views on defense is rather close to each other in many ways." Lacaze also visited a Chimese army tank division Saturday, the news agency said.

In another development, Cambodian nationalist leader Son Sann said in Singapore Sunday that he was considering "new ideas for the formation of a coalition which would seek a political solution to the country's problems. The former prime minister and leader of the Khmer People's National Liberation Front (KPNLF) told Agence France-Presse that he would present such ideas at the next tripartite conference if one is held. He did not detail the ideas he was considering.

Children keep ex-Beatle happy

LONDON, April 25 (AP) — Paul McCartney says he's happy with his family life and the music he now makes with Wings, and he insists he's not nostalgic for his years with the Beatles.

"I never really stop to look back at the Beatles days," he says in an article written for the British rock magazine Jamming. "I haven't even got a collection of all the Beatles records."

In the interview, excerpts of which were published in the London tabloid The Sun - day Mirror, McCartney says: "The story's not finished. I'm still going."

He humbly describes his Wings albums "Band on the run" and "Mull of Kintyre" — made with wife Linda, 39 — as "good" and says he takes most satisfaction from bringing up his children, Heather, 18, Mary, 12, Stella, 10, and James, 4.

"If you knew our kids, you'd see why I'm quite proud of myself," McCartney says. "Whenever I go to their school, I just go as an ordinary parent ... I stand there with all the other parents, huy my coffee for 10 pence (18 cents) at the school play and natter about school stuff. I don't feel famous even though I know I am."

8 Tahitians convicted

PARIS, April 25 (AFP) — Eight Tahitians, found guilty of manslaughter in the killing of their warder during a prison revolt in January 1978 in the French territory, were sentenced here Sunday to between four and 10 years' imprisonment.

The eight were convicted at a seven-day retrial held in Versailles, near Paris, after the court found that the Tahitians had not methoded to commit premeditated murder. The leader of the mutiny, I manuela Tauhiro, was given 10 years.

At their trial, the rebels claimed they had mutinied to support Polynesian independence and protest French nuclear tests in the Pacific.

Botha-Kaunda talks set

JOHANNESBURG, April 25 (AFP) — An unprecedented meeting between South African Prime Minister Pieter Botha and Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda will take place in a month's time, probably in Botswana's capital of Gaborone, the Johannesburg Stinday Times reported, quoting informed sources.

Kaunda had said in an interview March 17 with a South African journalist that he would be willing to meet with South African leader in order to defuse a "potentially explosive" southern African crisis that could make the 'French Revolution "look like a Sunday picnic." Other African leaders have reportedly expressed opposition to such talks.

In another report, the economic weekly Finance Week predicted that the meeting would result in a preferential trade agreement between the two countries. But The

At Versailles summit

Reagan faces protest over interest rates

United States is likely to be faced with a common front of its partners demanding action to hring down U.S. interest rates when President Ronald Reagan goes to Paris early next June for the seven-nation Versailles economic summit, observers said at the weekend.

Reagan is also bound to be told, politely but firmly, that the dollar is blatantly overvalued at present. And that combined with the external effects of the highest real short term U.S. interest rates in history, this is inflicting considerable damage on the economies of America's partners.

That much appeared clear as French President Erancois Mitterrand, host of the June 4-6 summit, returned home last week from a state visit to Japan and conferred with Japan's Premier Zenko Suzuki, and a stopover at Vancouver where he met Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau.

spill damages Paris seeks oil

RENNES, April 25 (AFP) - Fifty-five French mayors and councillors are preparing to leave-for the start of an unprecedented lawsuit in Chicago, concerning an unprecedented oil spill. The 220,000-ton U.S.-owned tanker Amoco Cadiz ran aground March 16, 1978, after its steering gear broke down. A black tide of crude oil gushed out of the hull, and fouled 700 kilometers (60 miles) of coast along France's Brittany peninsula.

Soviets may cut oil sales to East bloc

PARIS, April 25 (AFP) - The Soviet Union plans to reduce petroleum deliveries to Eastern European countries and increase their price, according to an Albanian News Agency (ATA) reports monitored here Saturday.

This would enable the "Soviet socialimperialists to buy industrial goods at low cost from member countries of the revisionist Comecon (Eastern European Economic Community) to supply the empty Soviet market," it said.

ATA said that during the Comecon session that just ended in Moscow, the Kremlin thermo-nuclear resources. That would provide more business for Soviet factories making equipment for nuclear power plants. Moscow's "social-imperialists" were exploiting their allies to "intensify the arms race with the American imperialists," ATA said.

BL Cars, union sign agreement

WARWICK, April 25 (R) - Britain's state-owned automaker, BL Cars, for many years dogged by union-management strife, has signed an overall agreement on company-union dealings which both sides hailed as a milestone in industrial relations.

The document signed with the 11 trade unions that represent its workers lays down procedures for negotiating wages and resolving disputes. "I hope to see that back of the old confrontation situations which we have lived through, and which have caused many difficulties," said Grenville Hawley of the Transport and General Workers Union.

Weekly commodities Uncertainty engulfs markets

LONDON, April 25 (AFP) - There was an air of uncertainty among most commodity markets this week following a marked fall in gold. Moves toward a peaceful solution of the Falkland crisis at the beginning of the week brought an immediate cut in prices. Thereafter the trend was subdued while developments were awaited.

News that Lebanon had been bombed by Israeli planes and that Britain was ready to use force against Argentina stiffened sellers' sentiment ahead of the weekend, particularly among the base-metals. But sterling's gradual recovery against the U.S. dollar tended to act against speculative buying.

Raw sugar remained depressed, touching new two and a half year lows: cocoa was at a ten-month low and coffee at its lowest since December. In contrast gas-oil touched a three-month high after record trading.

Gold: Easier. The main interest at the beginning of the week was the new futures market, the first in Europe. But after a busy start, despite the holiday in Switzerland and the closure of the Zurich bullion market, trading turned much quieter. There was some opposition to trading in sterling rather han dollars.

Although good arbitrage business developed with the New York market. Bullion prices in dollars slumped quickly at first, but steadied a little later.

Copper: Uncertain. Early falls wiped out last week's gain as base metals moved down in unison with gold. The breakdown of wage talks at Noranda (Canada) made little impression in checking the slide, as they were expected to be resumed in a few days' time. Market stocks rose again (up 1,800 tons to 134,000 tons) to the highest since December 1979.

Tim: Steady. Heavy buying support from the tin council's buffer stock manager was again peeded to hold the market steady. Trade estimates put the current holding of the buffer stock at over 30,000 tons (worth 220 million pounds or $380 million), and increasing daily. The council's protracted discussions on whether to impose export controls kept trading quiet toward the end of the week. The urgency of the situation was underlined to council delegates by the buffer stock manager who is believed to have only sufficient funds available to buy another 10,000 to 12,000 tons of tin.

Lead: Irreguler. A sharp fall followed a bigger than expected rise in market stocks (up 4,400 tons to 83,950 tons, the highest for six years) but prices later recovered firmly despite the reduction in U.S. producer prices. Zinc's rally also helped senti-

Zinc: Steadier. After an initial fall, prices turned firmer as a squeeze on nearby supplies developed. The reduction in stocks (down 400 tons to 61,250 tons, the lowest since September 1980) and predictions from West German producers that another cut in their prices is "anlikely" in the near future, also helped the undertone in spite of the continued lack of consumer demand in Europe.

Silver: Easier. Prices fell back with other precios metals, but they picked up from the worst levels in company with New York. Stocks rose by 40,000 onnees to 33,370,000

Aluminium: Irregularly easier. The sharp rise in stocks (up 8,350 tons to a record 208,075 tons) effectively squashed early buying interest. In addition there was little response in estimates from the International Primary Aluminium Institute showing that Western world production in March, on a daily basis, fell to its lowest for five and a half years. Sterling's steadiness checked a half-hearted late rally.

Argentina allays bankers' fears on debt payment

TOKYO, April 25 (AFP) - Argentina's central bank was Sunday reported to have extract laistesser commercial banks that it will not stop paying in debts to foreign banks following British economic sanctions against Argentina. An executive of the Argentine made the promise when he met representatives of the Japanese commercial banks and finance ministry officials last week, the leading economic paper Nihen Kelmi said.

According to the paper, the executive toki the Japanese the Argentine central bank had foreign currency reserves large enough to cover Argentina's imports of foreign gracis for seven months.

Although he did not give the exact annuant. the paper estimated Argentina's foreign currency reserves at around $6,000 million.

Peking industrial accidents decline

PEKING April 25 (AFP) - The number of fatal industrial accidents in Communist China last year dropped by 10.2 percent from 1980, the Warkers' Daily newspaper said here Sunday, apparently as a result of more than $270 million spent between 1979 and 1981 to improve working conditions.

Accidents killing or injuring workers had decreased by 11.5 percent in the past year compared with the previous year, the Work ers ' Daily said. It gave no figures. No overall statistics for sob accidents have ever been made available in China, where experts believe them to be frequent.

Particular efforts had been made to improve working conditions in about 20 industrial sectors considered dangerous, the news papers reported.

Kuwait unfolds deficit budget

KOWAIT, April 25 (AP) — Kuwait announced Sunday a $12.3 billion hudget with a deficit of more than $1 billion - the first since the oil price boom of 1973-1974,

Announcing the budget after a cahinet meeting, Minister of State for Cabinet Affairs Abdul Aziz Hussein said that it involves a $1.1 billium deficit, which is the difference between projected expenditures of $12,3 billion and a total income of $11.2 billion.

He said revenue from uil exports constitutes 92 percent of income. This year's budget is higher by $560 million, or five percent, than last year's hudget, which had a surplus of more than $6 billion.

Hussein said this year's deficit will be financed by the state's public reserves, amassed during the oil boom years.

No exact estimate is available about these reserves, but Minister of Finance Abdul-Latif Al Hamad said earlier this week that Kuwait would "go bankrupt in four years" if current expenditures continue to rise without a matching increase in oil revenues.

Kuwait is currently producing about 650,000 barrels a day, the lowest in its his-

EEC to view subsidized export issue

LUXEMBOURG, April 25 (R) - European Economie Community (EEC) finance ministers Monday debate a call by the Common Market's executive commission for tighter limits on subsidized export finance by the world's richest countries.

EEC sources said the commission is recommending a slight increase in the minimum interest rates applied to export eredits, bringing them nearer to commercial rates. The commission has also suggested reclassifying the Soviet Union and some other Eastern bloc states as advanced industrial countries, a move that would force them to pay more for export credits.

Riyal rates record rise

By J. H. Hammond

JEDDAH, April 25 - Riyal deposit rates firmed slightly Sunday compared with Saturday closing levels, but dealing was reported as being full and quiet for most of the day. The rises were in the short-dated funds with week-fixed being quoted at 12 1/8-13 percent compared with 11 1/4-12 1/2 percent on opening. Dealers were confident, bowever, that riyal deposit rates would remain stable and at present levels, especaially now with the dollar under pressure on the exchange and money markets. The rate rises were most probably due to some short-term borrowing of funds by local institutions and did not represent any tightening in the liquidity situation. Thus, in the fixed deposits, the one-month rate was still quoted at 13 1/8-13 1/8 percent while the one-year was quoted at 13 1/8-13 5/8 percent - both 1/2 percent higher than comparable

Saturday rates.

Business was reported quiet out of the Bahrain based OBU's — offshore banking units but some OBU's dealt in the continental currencies despite Europe's elosure Sunday. The dollar was generally marked lower against the other major currencies reflecting the American currencie's weekend losses in New York and the general expectation for more Eurodollar deposit rate falls. The one-month Eurodollar rate was quoted at 14 11/16-14 13/16 percent while the three-month rate was also quoted at the same level.

On Thursday, Eurodollar deposits for the same tenors were quoted at 15-15 1/m percent. As for the major trading currencies, the Japanese yen was quoted at 239.00 levels out of the OBU's on Sunday with the German mark also stronger at 2.3750 and the Swiss frane at 1.9640.

Asian bank nears $3b target

MANILA, April 25, (R) - Despite Washington's decision to trim its contributions to international aid organizations, the Asian Development Bank (ADB) is close to its goal of raising $3.2 billion for lending to poor countries.

ADB president, Masao Fujioka, said in an interview that the bank was between $200 and $300 million short of its target for a fund which lends the money on easy terms. But he told Reuters the bank huped to bridge the gap at a meeting here Monday of the 17 donor countries.

The Manila-based bank originally set a target from the fund of $4.1 billion for its interest-free lending for the 1983-87 period. But when the United States made it clear it would not give the $900 million asked of it, the 45-member ADB set the lower target of $3.2 hillion. At various meetings, the U.S. offered a little over balf of the original $500

Australia, France and some other members have offered to make additional contributions to the fund. Fujioka said be was hopeful that Monday's meeting, which precedes the annual ADB board of governors session opening Wednesday, would reach the target figure. He said recently that this figure would enable the bank to keep lending at the same level as during the previous five-year period. "If you coosider the harsh international environment, I am reasonably satisfied" he said, adding that some of his colleagues in the bank had believed the development fund would get no more than $2.7 billion.

Fujioka, a former Japanese government official who took over as ADB president last November, said he had also formulated a plan to increase the bank's ordinary capital by 125 percent over the next five years. The capital oow stand at $9.2 billion although only 10 percent is paid in. The United States and some European countries were resisting that move, he said.

Some opponents of the plan had suggested that none of the capital increase should be paid in, an idea which Fujioka said was impractical. Fujioka said he was aoxious the U.S. should resume its former position among the contributors to the fund because the ADB needed American support.

The Reagan administration feels that such aid is often wasted unless donor countries make necessary reforms to their economy.

The bank president also said there had been an enthusiastic response from bankers to the ADB's plans for co-financing, which the organization hopes will makeup for some of the shortages in official funds.

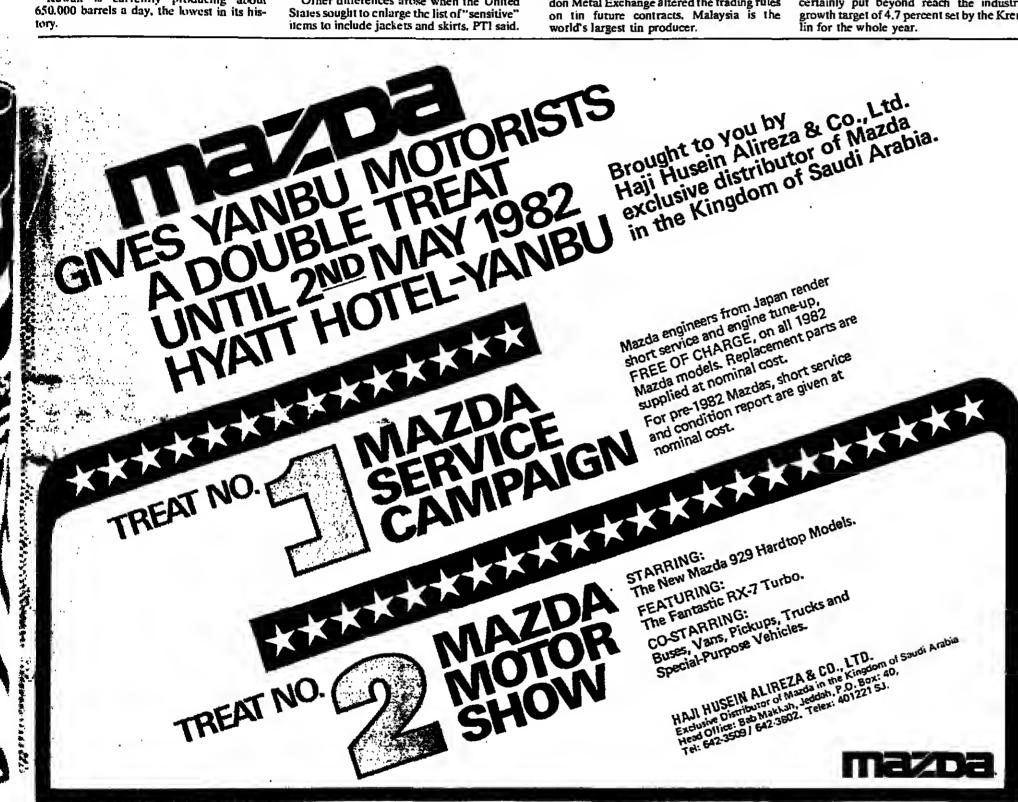

Asked about reports that India planned to ask the ADB for loans for the first time from next year, Fujioka said it would place a big burden on the bank but that India did qualify for loans if it waoted them. The ADB president said he expected that some of the bank's developing members might indicate plaos to start contributing to its funds during this week's meetings, which end Friday.

He held first place in the World Championship standings with 18 points, ahead of Austria's Niki Lauda, who had twelve. Pironi and Alboreto moved into a third place tie with 10 points each. Lauda was among the drivers who did not start in Imola.

Meanwhile, Ken Tyrrell, the British automaker, started afresh complaints against the turbo-charged cars. Tyrrell, who reluctantly decided to start his cars in the already trouble-hit Grand Prix of San Marino. on Sunday lodged a protest against the turbo-charged cars. The complaint was quickly rejected by the Italian stewards.

Tyrrell, who broke the boycott front of British teams bowing to pressures of his Italian commercial sponsor Candy, claimed turbo-charged engines used by Ferrari and Renault teams were powered by turbines, against Formula One rules. Stewards ruled that the protest was groundless.

"We initially thought it was a joke," said Jean Sage, a top official of the Renault team. "Turbo-charged engines are not turbine, and in addition power of turbo-charged engines is free, according to the rules."

Tyrrell's protest was the latest controversy which marred the fourth event of the World Formula One Championship in Imola. Only 14 cars entered the race, following a boycott of several British-hased teams in a dispute over legal weight of cars.

In World Cup Soccer finals

Regis' boots should stamp its mark in no doubt that Regis is the man for the No. 9 shirt. "He has the physique and power to frighten defenses to death in the World Cup.

And his gift of being able to shoot while in full stride makes him an awesome sight when he is motoring for goal," he says.

LONDON, April 25 (R) — The mere sight of Cyrille Regis on the soccer pitch is usually enough to convince defenders they are in the wrong profession.

The 24-year-old West Bromwich striker, who is expected to lead the England attack in he World Cup despite having only 20 ninntes international experience behind nim, is an impressive figure.

Television viewers and Group Four rivals France, Kuwait and Czechoslovakia will not niss the uncanny resemblance to former world heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier. And Regis is no Frazier in miniature. At 1.83 meters he is taller than "Smokin" loe" by 1.27 centimeters although lighter by II kildgrams.

Unlike Frazier, Regis, born in a shanty own in French Guyana, has found fame and fortune with his feet. Only five years ago he was playing for non-league club Haves for the not so princely sum of 83 sterling ($9) a week. Now he earns around 600 sterling ($1.060) plus bonuses.

Regis, who made his England debut as a substitute in the 4-0 victory over Northern Ireland in March, is the fourth highest scorer n the English First Division this season. But as two of the players ahead of him are 'foreigners" Scot Alan Brazil and Welshman lan Rush, he is widely tipped to link up with top scorer Kevin Keegan in Spam. Former England striker Jimmy Greaves is

Mills, Souness

LONDON, April 25 (AFP) — Ipswich's England defender, Mick Mills, will be pulled nut of the England squad for the match against Wales at Cardiff on Tuesday.

Mills injured his calf and shin against Manchester City Saturday and Ipswich manager Bohby Robson said, "I will be pulling him out of that game."

Liverpool's Gracme Souness and Gordon Strachan, of Aberdeen, will miss Wednesday's international between Scotland and Northern Ireland at Windsor Park, Belfast.

Both Scottish internationals were missing from Saturday's games, Souness with back trouble and Strachan with groin strain and manager Jock Stein has decided to hring back Celtic winger Davie Provan for their first match in the home international champion-

Two other Scots international who are doubtful for Wednesday are Ipswich men John Wark who has a knee injury and Alan Brazil with groin strain: Robsoo said, "they are going up to Scotland hut it's upto Jock Stein now to decide if they are fit enough." Manchester City's England under-21 captain Ray Ranson has also been pulled out of England's under-21 game against Scotland

Hoch takes one-stroke lead

NEW ORLEANS, April 25 (AP) - Scott Hoch birdied three of four holes and slogged into a one-stroke lead Saturday in the uncompleted second round of the weatherdisrupted $400,000 New Orleans Opeo Golf Tournament that now looks headed for a Mooday fioish. Hoch, 26, a runner-up at Doral this year and seeking his first PGA tour title, finished two rounds over the raio-soaked Lakewood Couotry Cluh course at 136, 8-under-par.

It appeared his score would stand up as the lead even though 30 players were stranded by the afternoon rains that flooded the course and extended the tournament's schedule by an extra day.

Of those still on the course when play was held up. Steve Melnyk was in the best position. He was 4-under-par for the tournament with three holes to play. He and the other 29 who were stopped by the flooded cooditions were scheduled to come hack Sunday morning to complete their rounds - weather permitting. And it seemed unlikely the weather would permit play. The forecast called for an 80 percent chance of rain continuing Sunday on the course that was saturated by earlier showers that washed out Thursday's play and threw the tournament schedule into disarray. Beb Shearer, the soft-spoken Australian who held the first round lead, managed a 71 and was one off the pace at 137. He was followed by Tom Jenkins, who hirdied three of his last four holes for a 69 and a 138 total. The group at 139 included Larry Ziegler, Gary Koch and Lon Hinkle, who has been out of action with a shoulder injury for about hree months. Ziegler had a second round 71, Koch 68 and Hinkle 69. Tom Watson, two-time winner of the tournament, was five stroke behind Hoch. He had round of 70 for a two-round total of 141.

Greaves, a lethal goal-scorer himself in his days with Chelsea, Tottenham and A.C. Milan in Italy, has no fears that Regis' lack of experience could let him down in Spain. "It could work in his favor. He will be an unknown force in the World Cup and rival managers will find it difficult to brief defenders on how to cope with him. Neither Geoff Hurst nor Martin Peters played for England hefore 1966 but emerged as key men in Alf Ramsey's World Cup winning team," adds

Regis, who came to Britain at the age of five, was 19 when he was spotted playing for Hayes by Dennis Cutler, a part-time scout for West Bromwich. Cutler has never forgotten that afternoon. "I went to watch a fullback but couldn't take may eyes off the big fellow up front," he recalls. "I won't find another Cyrille if I search all over again."

Albion signed him for 5,000 sterling ($ 8,800) and a further 5,000 sterling if he played 50 first-team games. Hayes had little doubt the extra money was as good as in the bank and even tried to get an international boous clause written into the transfer con-

Southampton and Liverpool's lan Rush with 28 goals each share the top berth in the English Soccer top-scorers table. They are followed hy Ipswich's Alan Brazil with 24, Cyrille Regis, West Bromwich 22 and John Wark, lpswich also with 22.

In the Second Division Rangers' Simon

Chip Beck kept him company at that total, also carding a 70 in his second round. Meanwhile, Sam Snead and Don January charged through cold and mist with a 10under-par 60 Saturday to take a commanding 8-stroke lead in the rich Liberty Mutual Legends Golf Tournament in Austin, Texas. The 69-year-old Soead and the 52-year-old January posted a total of 122 which was 10-under-par over soggy Onion Creek Golf Club Course. The tournament was shortened to 54-holes after Thursday's round was canceled by heavy rains. Red-Hom Toski and Japan's Chin-Sei-Ha maneuvered into a second place tie with Julius Boros and McLler Barber with an 8-under-par 32.

Spain's Jose Maria Canizres held his lead Saturday after three rounds of the Madrid Golf Tournament with a three-day total of 203. But his two-stroke lead looked siender with his illustrious compatriot Severiano Ballesteros, who had a round of 66, breathing down his oeck on 205.

In Tokyo, Japan's Tsuneyuki Nakajima won the Dunlop International Open Golf Championship here Sunday, the tenth and final leg of the Asia Golf Circuit with a total of 276. He picked up $25,000 for his efforts while compatriot Sahuro Fujiki got $16,500 for finishing second.

But it was the Taiwanese golfers who dominated the 1982 Asia circuit. Four of them finishing in the top five final standings. Hsu Sheng-San winner of the Thailand, Indian and Siogapore Opens, topped the field with 925 points, while American Denny Helper finished second with 687 points.

Hsu, as the winner of the circuit, gained direct entry into U.S. Memorial, World Series and British Open, which also admits the runner-up, in 1982 season. Lu Hsi Cheun, Hsieh Min - Man and Chen Tze-Chung finished in that order.

West Bromwich had not heen the first club to show interest in Regis. Arsenal watched him hut lost interest after an abysmal display for Hayes in a goalless Cup ue. They were not represented when Regis scored all four goals in the replay, Bobby Ross, manager of Hayes at the time, likes to remind Arsenal what they missed: "Cryille is as good as Peter Withe in the air, as skilful as Paul Mariner on the ground and as quick as Trevor Francis. He's there in one.'

Regis lives in an expensive suburh of Birmingham with his wife and I 7-month-old son Robert, named after his father who worked as a laborer hy day and waiter by night to feed the family when they came to Britain, His first football was an old tin can in the garden of the derelict house next door.

At 16 he became an apprentice electrician. The five sterling he earned with Hayes supplemented his take-home pay of 27 sterling ($48). Regis is modest about his success and says: "God's been good to me. I still have to pinch myself that I get paid for kicking a ball in the right direction."

"I've probably got another 10 years in the game. Maybe I'll start an electrical business or maybe I'll become the first black man-For the moment, the World Cup monopolizes Regis' thoughts. If Ron Greenwood hands him the No. 9 shirt, and if he reproduces his dynamic club form, Cyrille Regis could be a knockout in Spain

By a Staff Writer

JEDDAH, April 25 — It was a tale of tails in the P.S. 95 cricket final between Shalimar and Pak Saudi last weekend. Shalimar's tail wagged, while Pak Saudi's did not.

The successful tale of Shalimar's tail, in the end, swung the game in its favor becoming the proud recipient of the P.S. 95 Cricket Cup. But the 42-run victory which Shalimar recorded was hard-earned.

Shalimar began the day on a bright note, winning the toss. But within moments the joy was transformed into gloom with its frontliners making a steady procession to the pavilion. Khalid struck two consecutive hlows with the total reading four. Shafqat and Anis then retrieved the situation briefly, but hoth fell in quick succession after a stint of dangerous living in the middle.

The prevailing gloom heightened with Shalimar sliding from 35 for four to 77 for nine. With redemption seeming impossible, last-man Muzzaffar trudged in to keep Shaukat, the No. 8 bat, company. It was here that Pak Saudi came up against unexpected resistance. The last-ditch defense of Shalimar hlunted everything Pak Saudi threw at them and carried on till 134 - adding 57 for the last wicket. Muzzaffar, who had batted with carefree ahandoned rattled up 32 in quick time, the highest of the inning, before falling. Shaukat was unbeaten with a valiant 20.

Pak Saudi, handicapped with the absence of openers Shahhaz and Pervez — who left to play professional cricket in Lancashire league, encountered the same fate as the Shalimar frontliners. Pak Saudi reeled under an accurate attack and superb fielding. From zero for two they progressed falteringly to 92 for eight with Rizwan (18), Nasir (13) and Khalid (11) blostering the total. Rizwan's exit at 92 for eight saw Pak Saudi collapse at the same total.

Connors drops opening set to Sandy Mayer

DALLAS, Texas. April 25 (Ageacies) — American World No. 1 John McEnroe and Czech Ivan Lendl are to meet in the men's singles final of the World Championship Tennis Tournament here on Monday even-

In Saturday's semi-finals McEasoe, who will be going for his third title here, beat compatriot Eddie Dibbs 6-4, 6-4, 7-6. Second-seeded Lendl easily beat surprise semifinalist Vijay Amritraj of India 6-1, 6-0, 7-5 in just an hour and a haif.

Meanwhile, Jimmy Connors came back from the one set down to beat Sandy Mayer 4-6, 6-2, 6-1 while Gene Mayer romped to a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Australia's Mark Edmondson to enter the finals of the $370,000 King Ceasar's Palace Tennis Classic, in Las Vegas.

Connors, who meets Gene Mayer Sunday for the $60,000 first prize, dropped a set for the first time in the tournament but managed to come around and dominate the last two sets. Connors won 11 of the last 12 games in the match and broke Mayer's serve four times, including one crucial break with the match even 1-1.

Gene fared much better in his easy win over Edmondson, jumping out on top quickly and never giving Edmondson a chance to get back in the match. "It became so one-sided he probably thought in terms of winning games, instead of matches," said Mayer. Edmondson got to the semifinals playing only one full match. Io the two matches before Mayer, he won both by default while leading in the second set when Raul Ramirez and Brian Tcacher withdrew with injures.

In Bournemouth, top-seeded Balazs Taroczy of Hungary clawed his way back from the brink of defeat to down Spaniard Jose Higueras 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 Friday and advanced to the semifinals of the $144,000 State Express Classic hard court tournament.

BUDAPEST, April 25 (AFP) - Sweden's Michael Applegren, won the men's singles title of the European Table Tennis Championship beating compatriot Janove Waldner 17-21, 17-21, 21-18, 22-20, 21-19 here Sun-

The 21-year-old Applegren of Stockholm lost the first two games, but came strongly to pip the 16-year-old Waldner.

The agile Waldner's victory in the first two sets raised cheers from the crowd, who took him to their hearts after his semifinal victory over Hungary's Tibor Klampar.

However, Applegren's nerves of steel stood him in good stead, and he did not let himself be discouraged by the setback: Gradually Waldner began to show signs of tiredness and became jittery. The selfconfident Applegren had an answer for everything the tecoager could send toward him, though he had to use all his resources to clinch the championship.

champioos the Soviet Union beat Canada 6-4 (3-1, 1-2, 2-1) in the opening match of the finals pool in the World Ice Hockey Championships here Sunday. The Soviet Union, who won all seven of their matches in the preliminary phase of the championship, are now certain to retain their world title.

The Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Canada battled their way into the final stage here Saturday night for the second. successive year. The Soviet Union sailed through the seven matches of the preliminaries without a single defeat or even a draw, beating fellow finalists Czechoslovakia 5-3, Sweden 7-3 and Saturday night Canada 4-3. Second-placed Czechoslovakia, who will be hoping to exchange their last year's bronze at least for a silver, had a mixed bag of results in the opening matches defeating the Italians 10-0 hut then allowing themselves to be beaten 2-4 by West Germany and managing only a 3-3 draw with last year's silver medallists Swe-

The tough, combative Swedish side qualified without achieving any impressive results, their 3-3 draw with Finland last night allowing them to grab a place in the finals. As for the Canadians, defeated 2-6 by the Czechs and held unexpectedly to a 3-3 draw by Italy, the best they can expect is to aim for a hronze medal. In the bottom half of the table Finland, sixth last year, finished fifth and just out of the running in front of their own supporters."

The West Germans played a wildly inconsistent series of games beating Czechoslovakia 4-2 then only managing a 5-5 draw with the bottom-of-the table Americans. The absence through injury of their top scorer Marcus Kohl at the end of the tournament was a further handicap but their rough play won them no fans and they collected a total of 100 minutes of penalty time to top the table of "Baddies".

Italy, back in the Group "A" championship after a long absence managed to hang on there with a 7-5 win over the United States and a 3-3 draw with Canada. The United States, Olympic champions in 1980, slumped to fifth last year and a humiliating last place this year with six defeats and only one draw. They are relegated to the Group "B" championship and their place in the "First Division" next year will be taken by East Germany.

Boza-Edwards kayoes Verderosa

ATLANTIC CITY, New Jersey, April 25 (Agencies) - Ugandan former world junior lightweight champion Cornelius Boza-Edwards quickly disposed off American John Verderosa in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

After an even first round, Boza-Edwards took cootrol in the second, hitting the previously unbeaten Verderosa more or less at will. The Ugandan southpaw, who currently won the European title, caught Verderosa in the third round with a scorching left uppercut that put him down for the count of eight.

The American got hack with difficulty only to go down again within seconds of regaining his feet under an onslaught of blows. Referee Larry Hazard stepped io to halt the slaughter. It was Verderosa's first defeat after a run of 22 wins.

Meanwhile, it was reported in San Juan, Puerto Rico, Wilferdo Gomes, of Peurto Rico, will defend his World Boxing Council's super bantamweight title against Mexican Juan Antooio Lopez June 11 in Las Vegas,

Gomez's lawyer Francisco Varcarcel, has, said the fight will precede the WBC heavyweight fight between champion Larry Holmes and Gerry Cooney. Gomez has begue his training for the fight, being promoted by American Don King. Varcarcel said he is trying to get the WBC to acknowledge a the bout as mandatory to make good Gomez's commitment to defending his title before three rivals designated by the WBC.

lo the first of the three fights, last March, Gomez knocked out Juan Meza. The Lopez fight would be the second and the third would be against Mexican Guadelup Luisor. The Puerto Rican Boxing Commission has sent a note to the WBC President Jose Sulaiman of Mexico, requesting the fight be considered?

In Johannesburg, World Boxing Associated tion (WBA) champioo Davey Moore could face another weight battle when his postponed light-middleweight title fight against South African Charlie Werr takes place

Opening lead - ace of clubs. You never know - when there's a borderline choice between which of two bids to make - that exercising one choice may lead to enormous success, while area cising the other may lead to absolute ruin.

But this very situation arose in dramatic fashion in the 1970 world championship match between Brazil and the United States on the accompanying hand.

At the first table, with Bobby Wolff and Jim Jacoby North-South for the U.S., the bidding went as shown.
Jacoby bill a Beart, when he could just as easily have open and ed with a spade, and this paid off handsomely when he wound up making six hearts

Declarer ruffed the club lead and played a round of trumps. With West showing out, South could not afford to continue trumps, so he played a heart, hoping for a 1-1 division. Unluckily, West had both missing hearts and the outcome was that Assumpção lost a heart and a ruff to go down

Moreover, six hearts played by North - would likewise have failed against a spade lead by East. Rays Believe It or Not!

France favors independent line

COPENHAGEN, April 25 (AP) -French President Francois Mitterrand was quoted Sunday as saying "it is just too bad" if Washington does not like his policies in Central America and if Moscow does not like bis support of the deployment of new nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

"I prefer to be straightforward and say no" to the Russians if I feel like it - and to the Americans, too, of course, if it is necessary, Mitterrand told interviewers from Danish newspapers in Paris last Friday as he was preparing for a 3-day state visit to Denmark eginning next Wednesday.

The president also said that he has worked ut new concrete proposals for an attack on ne global economic slump which he plans to introduce at the summit meeting of the "big seven," including the United States and Japan, next July at Versailles, France.

Mitterrand did not go into details, hut newspapers here said he appeared to think along the lines of expanding international cooperation beyond economy to include social policies aimed at combating unemp-

They said this would include a boost of public investments, a revision of the existing international monetary system and measures to check what he called "the trade invasion" of Japan, the high U.S. interest level and "the overrated dollar.

On Central America, Mitterrand was quoted by Berlingske Tidende (conservative) as saying that "the peoples of Central America have the right to determine their own fate and to refuse a life in misery and suppression by dietators and ruthless economic power holders.

"Therefore I support the revolt by these people. If that does not please the United States - and it clearly does not - it is just too bad," he continued. "But the United States has to see that by opposing the demands of the people they create the openings for Cuba and the Soviet Union.'

On his foreign policy style, Mitterrand was quoted in Aktuelt (social-democratic) as describing it as a change from the "semisuffocated diplomacy" of Valery Giscard d'Estaing, his predecessor. In the Berlingske Tidende version, Mitterrand added that under Giscard "France rarely took a clear stand on anything at all."

Mitterrand defended France's role as a major arms exporter by saying that the weapons industries not only provide work for bundreds of thousands, hut also have made it

Psychiatrist battle expected at Hinckley trial tomorrow

WASHINGTON, April 25 (R) - John Hinckley, son of a wealthy oil company executive, goes on trial Tuesday for the shooting nearly 13 months ago in which President Ronald Reagan and three other men were seriously wounded.

There is no question that Hinckley was the gunman who fired at Reagan, presidential press secretary James Brady, a secret service agent and a Washington policeman. The incident on March 30, 1981 was captured on videotape and played over and over again, stunning a television public already numbed by violence directed against world figures.

The trial will focus instead on whether Hinckley, 26, was legally sane at the time of the shooting. He has pleaded not guilty on grounds of insanity.

The videotape of the shooting and the ensuing pandemonium was so vivid that some of the pre-trial debate bas been over whether the jury will be allowed to view it. The defense has contended the tape would so prejudice the jury it could not decide anything impartially. The prosecution, in pressing the charges of attempted murder and assault against Hinckley, has argued it would be ludicrous to omit direct evidence of the crime itself.

With the agreement of the trial judge, the jury will probably view the tape of the shooting. The main legal hattle will involve Hinckley's mental state up and during the assassination attempt.

Evidence disclosed by authorities suggests Hinckley's motive might have been to impress teen-age actress Jodie Foster, with whom he had become infatuated from afar. The jurors who will be chosen beginning Tuesday will hear opposing teams of psychiatrists try to convince them Hinckley should or should not be held responsible. Since the shooting, Hinckley has twice tried to kill himself, once with pills and once by hanging himself in his cell. The insanity defense, which has become increasingly controversial in the United States in recent years, has its roots in the so-called "M'Naghten rule" used in 1843 by a British court. The court acquitted a man of trying to kill Prime Minister Robert Peel, saying the defendant did not "know right from

The defense of insanity or "diminished responsibility" as it is often known, can be a complex question for juries.

Lawyers for both sides in the Hinckley case have jousted over such concepts as the difference between "cognitive knowledge," which means understanding the difference between right and wrong, and "affective knowledge," the ability to appreciate emotionally the consequences of an act.

Professor David Robinson of George Washington University law school said iuries are often given a cloud of words and asked to think about criteria which are extremely vague." In the end, he said, it is really a philosophical question how much we hold people responsible for their bebavior.

Another aspect of the Hinekley case bas aroused controversy is the time lag between the crime and the trial. Critics have noted that Pope Jobn Paul's would-be assassin was bought to trial last year in barely two months, and five of those involved in the murder last October of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat have already been put to .The main cause of the delay in the Hinckley case has been a prosecution fight over whether it could introduce evidence seized from the accused man's jail cell and statements made to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) following the shooting. Trial judge Barrington Parker suled that both were obtained illegally and could not be used against Hinckley. The trial is expected to last about a month.

Several killed in Jakarta poll clash

JAKARTA, April 25 (AFP) — Several people were killed here Sunday when Indonesian troops clashed with Muslim groups who tried to disrupt a general election campaign rally held by the ruling Golkar (functional groups) Party.

At least two persons were shot dead, at Jalan Kiyai Tapa, after a number of youths from the rival Muslim United Development Party (PPP) refused to disperse during a Golkar road procession, eyewitnesses said.

They added that four PPP youths were also wounded by stray bullets and taken to hospital. Reports said similar incidents also took place at Gunung Sahari and Salemba, both in central Jakarta, and a number of youths were wounded.

Maj. Gen. Sasono called on residents to remain calm. The Indonesian general elections are due on May 4.

The processions began calmly, but trouble

The troops fired directly at several Muslims who tried to defy them.

Heavily armed troops and policemen later blocked a number of main roads in the capital, where the mass Golkar processions were being beld, apparently to prevent violent from spreading. Jakarta military commander flared when Muslim groups clashed with red-bereted Golkar youths distributing leaflets. Armed troops fired warning shots into the air in a bid to disperse the mobs, but they ignored the shots and kept moving

34 die,60 hurt in Italian fire possible for France to develop sophisticated weapons and build its own independent nuc-

PERUGIA, Central Italy, April 25 (Agencies) - At least 34 persons were lead and 60 injured in a fire at a building housing an antiques fair, according to a count at 3:00 p.m. (1300 GMT), an informed source said.

Several of the injured had been taken to Rome hospitals specializing in hurn treatment, the source said. Firemen mastered the blaze on the first and second stories of the building but the third floor, where many people were trapped, was still aflame, last reports said.

Eyewitnesses said the fire started on the second floor and spread to exhibits of old furniture and carpets, trapping visitors in a third-floor cafe. Some people hurled themselves out of windows when the ground-floor exits became jammed with visitors scrambling to get out and parents screaming to children still inside, the evewitnesses said.

Italy coalition

ROME, April 25 (R) - Italy's fragile coalition government, rocked by a bitter internal feud last week, faces a new test when parliament debates one of its key economic proposals this week. The lower house will be asked to approve a hill to update the formula for calculating the obligatory severance payments by employers to redundant workers.

Late Saturday night the Senate (upper house) approved the draft law despite a prolest by the confederation of state employers that its provisions were tou generous to workers.

Parliament must approve the bill in order to head off a referendum, provisionally fixed for next June 13, on a bid hy the far-left proleiarian Democracy Party to restore full index, linking to the severance payments, Prime Minister Giovanni Spadulini has said the referendum, if approved, would cripple both public and private sector employers. Spadolini said he regarded the government hill as a fine halance between the demands of workers and employers and an essential element in any economic recovery. Under a complicated formula in the bill, payments will in future be calculated on a hase of 7.4 percent of annual salary for each year worked. This will then be increased by three-quarters of the current inflation rate plus 1.5 percent.

Communist senators Saturday night failed with an amendment tu increase the payments by the full rate of inflation. All five parties of Spadolini's center-left coalition have said they will support the bill in the lower house, despite last week's bitter row between the dominant Christian Democrats and Socialists which almost toppled the government.

The Socialists had insisted on the resignation of Christian Democrat Treasury: Minister Nino Andreatta after he likened them to Nazis. But Sandro Pertini, Italy's widely respected Socialist president, persuaded them to drop their demand in the interests of government, stability.

WARSAW, April 25 (AFP) - The dismissal of Henryk Samsonowicz, rector of Warsaw University, by the minister of higher education has led to a public confrontation between the university council, composed of representatives of the teaching staff and students, and the government.

The council, in a resolution posted in the university courtyard, "launches an appeal to the Polish authorities so that Samsonowicz can continue, as rector, the work that he has undertaken."

It expressed to the minister, Benon Mickiewicz, its "reprobation" for the way in which he named a new rector, Kazimierz Dobrowolski, "in violation of the university's self-management principles." The resolution "requests that the error committed by the minister be corrected, and that the post of
